

Reflect

An AI-powered reflection companion designed MBA students navigating the pressures of coursework, recruiting, and personal growth.

MBA Students Are Running on Empty

Our research with 15 MBA students revealed a consistent pattern of overwhelm that compounds throughout the semester

interviewees

Cognitive Overload

Reported recurring overwhelm as coursework, recruiting, and social obligations hit simultaneously with no space to process.

average quit time

Journaling Abandonment

Multiple interviewees tried journaling but stopped within a week. Blank pages feel like more homework, not much-needed relief.

Emotional Privacy Gap

Students crave honest reflection but fear judgment in a competitive cohort. They process emotions alone rather than asking peers for help.

Why ChatGPT Doesn't Work for Reflection

You could vent to ChatGPT. Here's why that doesn't solve the problem:

ChatGPT

- ✗ Only gives validating feedback — "very general, not enough challenging"
- ✗ No memory between sessions — treats old context as current events
- ✗ No structure — blank prompt is just as overwhelming as a blank page
- ✗ No longitudinal insights — can't surface patterns across weeks

Reflect our app

- ✓ Pushes back & challenges — tuned to give constructive, not just validating, feedback
- ✓ Persistent memory — remembers your context across every session
- ✓ Structured 5-min flow — guided prompts eliminate the blank page problem
- ✓ Weekly pattern recaps — surfaces recurring themes and growth over time

"I want a long-term partner that can establish a relationship across time ... so, it has enough info to provide sufficient support during hard times."
